

ABSTRACT

A voice-operated communications interface permits communications between two or more groups using incompatible communications devices such as two-way radios.

Approved for release